Austrian Wine Culture Experience Tour

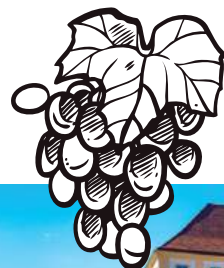

Schloss Hof

Schloss Hof is a palace located in Marchfeld, Austria near the border with Slovakia. It once belonged to Prince Eugene of Savoy who purchased it late in his life in 1726. He had it enlarged in the Baroque style by the architect Johann Lukas von Hildebrandt in 1729, and used it as an elaborate hunting lodge.

Pollak's Wirtshaus - Der Retzbacherhof

Sonja and Harald Pollak are the heart of the Retzbacherhof. The couple have been running the inn with heart and soul for over 15 years. A valued team is at their side to present traditional Weinviertel dishes without a lot of frills so that they delight the guests' palates. You can eat character - it's not for nothing that the host's core message is.

In the timelessly elegant restaurant and in the thoroughly romantic guest garden, the landlady Sonja and her team welcome and look after the guests.

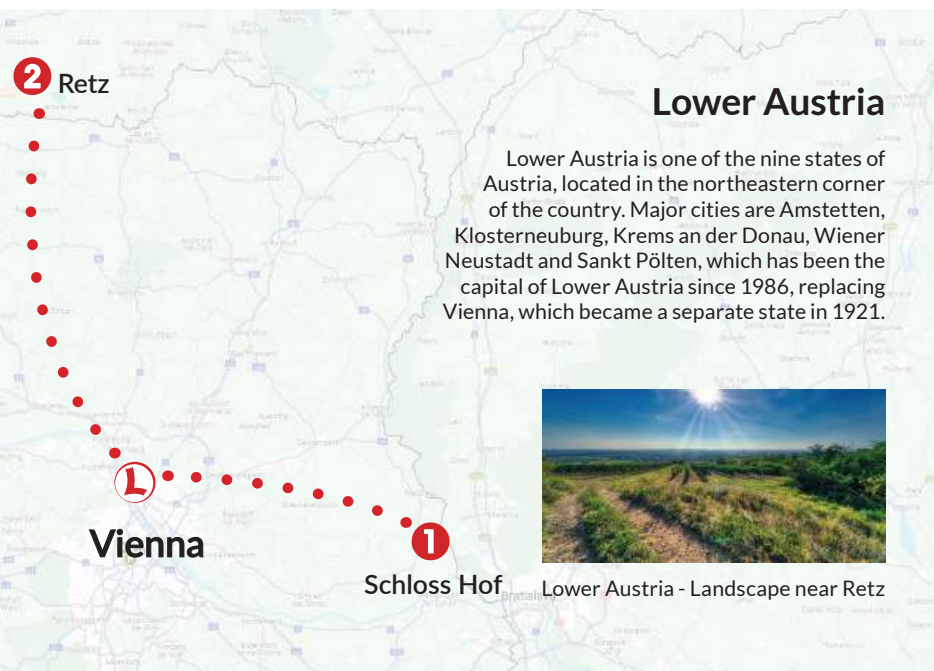

Retz

2

Retz is a town with a population of 4,168 in the Hollabrunn District in Lower Austria, Austria.

For wine lovers and foodies alike, Retz is always worth a visit.

Mediterranean flair in the northern Weinviertel? It's true. Find it in the wonderful town of Retz with its huge main square and abundance of wine cellars. You will find the largest and best below the main square: The Retzer Erlebniskeller is a 20-km giant maze!

Lower Austria

Lower Austria is one of the nine states of Austria, located in the northeastern corner of the country. Major cities are Amstetten, Klosterneuburg, Krems an der Donau, Wiener Neustadt and Sankt Pölten, which has been the capital of Lower Austria since 1986, replacing Vienna, which became a separate state in 1921.
